Cancer is a Horrible Disease It Should Not Take a Child's Dream of a College Education

Over 80% of childhood cancers can be successfully treated. Even when treatment for childhood cancer yields a positive result, young patients and their families must reckon with significant changes to their bodies and their lifestyles.

Owen Craig Pollard
President/CEO
Founder

It was over 23 years ago that I determined that I wanted to help cancer survivors realize their dream of a college education. I rallied 24 of my closest family members and friends. We staged one tiny golf tournament and awarded a single $500 scholarship later and I knew we were doing the right thing.

Cancer can devastate a family. The destruction is not only physical and emotional. It can be financial as well. Families use every last resource to fight the disease. Life savings, retirement plans and college funds are drained by medications, operations and procedures often not covered by insurance. What parent wouldn't exhaust every means possible to keep their child alive?

Over the years, we've been fortunate to be able to share the message of Cancer for College around the country. We've granted over $2 million in scholarships to more than a thousand survivors from all 50 states. This year alone, we granted over 124 scholarships totaling nearly $400K. We've come a long way from that first tournament, but we have so much farther to go. Even with our growth, we are only able to help a fraction of survivors who seek our assistance.

None of this would be possible without the support and dedication of our donors. Without you, we would not have the opportunity to make such a lasting impact on the lives of these amazing cancer survivors.

Our heartfelt thanks goes out to everyone who makes what we do possible. We are humbled and honored that you choose to support our mission.

Policy

Cancer for College grants scholarships to cancer survivors who are enrolled in an accredited college, university or trade school.

Procedure

Since 1993, Cancer for College (a registered 501 (c) 3 charitable foundation) has provided hope an inspiration to cancer survivors in the form of college scholarships. Scholarship application period runs from October 1 through January 31. Scholarships are awarded in July. Awards outside the regular award period are considered on a case-by-case basis.

Applicants are not discriminated against based on sex, race or religious belief. California applicants and applicants attending Southern California colleges will receive first consideration for perpetual scholarships. Community college applicants are eligible for the minimum scholarship level. All remaining applicants will be eligible for other one-time awards. Awards range from $1000 - $5,000. Scholarship recipients must maintain full-time enrollment at his/her stated university. Failure to maintain full-time enrollment or transfer from a 4-year university to a community college may result in loss of scholarship funds. Scholarship recipients experiencing health-related issues that force them to leave school may request a one-time extension of their scholarship, not to exceed one school year. Recipients exceeding this time will forgo their scholarship, but may reapply when ready to return to school and will receive first consideration.

DESTINED TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

2016 PREVIEW

Every year with Cancer for College is a new adventure. Through the support of our celebrity spokesman Will Ferrell, we have been presented many great opportunities to raise money for our cause. These events almost always happen in an organic and natural way. While we don't have a high profile event planned, we have many opportunities that we are working through as we move into the new year.

Returning in 2016 will be our third year as partner on the Desert Smash Pro-Celebrity Tennis Exhibition and concert in La Quinta. We will also stage our 23rd annual Classy Golf Classic in October.

Cancer for College is growing in 2016. We will have three full-time staff members plus a grant consultant and a part-time office manager in 2016. This is tremendous growth for our organization as we look to continue the natural evolution of our program.

Past scholarship recipient Abby Houck starts her second full year overseeing her own backyard in the Pacific Northwest. The University of Washington Alum is building a series of events to benefit survivors in the region. Her premier event is Taste to Educate. It's an evening of great food and wine provided by regional growers. It is the 9th year that we have staged this event. She has also activated students at her alma mater with the giving spirit with a Ms. Greek event that will see sorority teams raising funds for the campaign. She has also been able to tap into the local community with grant support. We anticipate continued growth in this arena.

Mitch Friesen is another past scholarship recipient that we have added to our team in 2015. Mitch is tasked with building relations with current and past scholarship recipients. He is also working to build a mentor group of professionals to help recipients as they navigate the college experience. In addition, he is building a robust database of our past scholarship recipients so that we can share this information with potential donors and grant organizations.

We have added a third past scholarship recipient in Logan White. Logan is helping to grow the Casino Night in the Carolinas event. It's an event that bestowed Logan with her scholarship only a few short years ago. More importantly, Logan is pursuing grants for the charity putting her writing and research skills to use for the cause.

Overseeing the operation is Greg Flores. Now in his 9th year with Cancer for College, he continues to bring creativity and heart to our events while managing the opportunities that come for our celebrity spokesman.

Melding all of these moving parts together is what it takes in order for Cancer for College to continue to push beyond just writing checks to cancer survivors. In 2016, we will begin to offer more services to help with the college experience. We will continue to build a family of scholarship recipients in order to have advocates for a lifetime. This is the next generation of Cancer for College's commitment to our community of cancer survivors.

2016 PREVIEW MENTOR PROGRAM

Cancer for College has long prided itself on building a family atmosphere to our scholarship program. Recipients share their successes with us. We invite them and their families to events and introduce them to the new scholars that come in each year. We want to know our scholarship recipients and we want them to feel like they are part of a larger community that supports them.

To build the next generation of Cancer for College scholars, we want to expand the community. We are going out into the business world to find individuals that want to support the cancer survivor community. We desire to link scholars who are pursuing a career in a particular field with companies and individuals that can help them not only financially but with career guidance and mentoring as well.

Cancer for College has already started this program on a small scale with great initial success. We have partnered with individuals who want to have a deeper relationship with our scholars.

Musician Andrew McMahon is a cancer survivor. He sought to help other survivors realize their dreams as we do through Cancer for College. Together we have been able to establish the Dear Jack Scholarship that actively searches for cancer survivors that wish to pursue a career in music. The scholarship has already aided individuals like Austin Gatus and Kalina Campion. Austin is an award winning Jazz musician attending UCLA who has performed alongside icons like Dave Koz and Kenny G. Kalina is part of a band called Rocky's Revival along with her sister Kiana. Through Andrew's generosity, Kalina's band has been invited to open for Andrew McMahon and the Wilderness while she attends Cal State University, Fullerton.

Over individuals have stepped up as well. Steve Leonard is a successful franchisee in the Jersey Mike's Sub chain of stores. He has made his mission to help and serve scholarship recipients interested in a career in the restaurant industry.

The next generation of Cancer for College will be creating these special relationships between the our scholars and the business community. To learn more about our mentorship program, please contact our office at 760-599-5096.

MAJOR: BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

When all the other 8th graders were going to the beach...

I was in a hospital fighting for the opportunity to live the next chapter of my life. I was diagnosed with Aplastic Anemia. My body stopped producing the blood cells I needed to survive. A life saving bone marrow transplant let me get back to life. I worked on improving my golf game and dug into school work. I started my own charity to register people for the National Marrow Donor Program.
